

Curriculum vitae
Prof. Ferdinando Palmieri

Name: Ferdinando Palmieri

Born: 26/04/1939 in Lumezzane, Brescia, Italy

University education: 1963, graduated in Medicine with honours at the University of Naples; Lecturer of Biochemistry: 1/11/1963 - 1/11/1973, University of Bari; Full Professor in Biochemistry: 1/11/1973, University of Bari; NATO fellowship: 1/1/1966-31/12/1966; Physiologische-Chemische Institut, Marburg, Germany; Visiting professor: 1/6/1974-31/8/1974, 1/12/1975 - 31/1/1976, Dept. of Molecular biology, Nashville, USA;

Member of the "Accademia Nazionale dei Lincei", Roma: 2003 -;

Awarded "Gold Medal 2000" for contributions to Science and Culture by the President of the Italian Republic;

Nominated Honorary Professor of Lomonosov Moscow State University, USSR: 2010

Member of the "Consiglio Universitario Nazionale" CUN 1998-2006;

President of the "Centro Interdipartimentale di Servizi per gli Studi Biologici (CISBi)" of the University of Bari 1995-;

Scientific Coordinator of the "Centro di Eccellenza in Genomica comparata (CEGBA), Univ. of Bari 2001-; Treasurer of the Ital. Biochemical Society: 1977-1979; Secretary of the Ital. Biochemical Society: 1980 - 1982; 1993 - 1994;

Member of Scientific Committees of CNR: 1977-2003; Member of the FEBS Fellowships Committee: 1986-1990;

Member of Organizing and/or Scientific Committees of several scientific Congresses; Member of the Editorial Board and/or referee of several International Journals; Invited speaker at several International Congress.

Scientific interests: mitochondrial transport proteins, purification, reconstitution into liposomes, structure and function, genes, biogenesis, expression in E. coli and S. cerevisiae, and site-directed mutagenesis of mitochondrial membrane proteins, mitochondrial myopathies.

Co-editor of 19 books published by Addison-Wesley (5), John Wiley (4) and Elsevier (10).

Publications: 301 papers published in international Journal.